COLUMBIA UNIVERSITY. COLLEGE OF PHYSICIANS & SURGEONS.
OFFICE OF ASSOCIATE DEAN FOR POSTGRADUATE EDUCATION.
Records, 1968, 1972-1982.
1 cubic foot (3 boxes)

HISTORICAL NOTE: Associate Deans, of which there were usually several at any given time, assisted the Dean of the College of Physicians & Surgeons in managing the affairs of the medical school. The office was first established in the early 20th century. Associate Deans often, though not invariably, are responsible for a specific area such as admissions or postgraduate education.

SCOPE AND CONTENT: Records created by the Office of Associate Dean for Postgraduate Education during the tenure of Dr. José M. Ferrer, 1973-1982. The records document Ferrer's investigations into possible residency opportunities at hospitals with which P&S was discussing affiliation agreements. The records provide a snapshot of the state of medical postgraduate training and education at a diverse group of community hospitals in the metropolitan New York area.

Materials for each hospital vary widely but may include correspondence; Ferrer's notes on his visits; questionnaires; and hospital publications, including newsletters and annual reports. The best-documented hospital here is Overlook Hospital in Summit, N.J. with which P&S forged an affiliation that is still in effect as of the writing of this guide.

LANGUAGE: English.

ACCESS: The records are open without restrictions.

RELATED RECORDS: Additional records documenting residencies and medical postgraduate training from the early 20th century through the early 1990s can be found in the Central Records of the Vice President for Health Sciences/Dean of the Faculty of Medicine.
